Model 1440-RC Tire Chuck

The Goldenrod/Svecom Model 1440-RC Tire Chuck is a light weight and economical general utility core adapter.

The design has a central body with split collar, the molded rubber bladder, and the end cap. The stationary half of the split collar is machined from the central body for concentricity. The chucks may be made from aluminum or steel.

The model is normally used in pairs and assembled onto an expanding shaft or a mandrel. It is available with interconnecting air hoses, so that two or more chucks may be inflated through a single valve.

The large single bladder offers a maximum of surface area against the core ID, and handles higher torque well. The highly abrasion resistant bladder has outstanding elastic properties, and always rebounds below the core ID.
